The Effects of TV on Children

A recent opinion poll has found out that several parents were concerned about the amount of violence depicted in films and TV shows. Most people think that it is the parents' responsibility to avoid the exposure of violent content on their children. The vast majority favor such solutions as strict parental supervision, warning labels on records and voluntary self-restraint by entertainment companies. There are also others who claim that the government must apply the procedure of censorship. It is quite obvious that the children spend more time watching TV than in school and the influence of the TV on their developmental years is undeniable. The problem is that our television system is attuned to the marketplace and the children are seen as easy targets.
